

6 Easy Storage Solutions: No Waste of Space

Not enough storage space in your home? Here are some creative ways to maximize your square footage and stay organized in every room.

Begin with Basic Bins

Any room can be decluttered with basic bins. Garage storage gets a big boost from plastic stackables, but for something more stylish in higher-traffic areas like the living room and kitchen, consider re-facing plainer containers like shoeboxes and berry bins with attractive wrapping paper.

Clean up the Closets

Organizing closets is an exercise in creative problem-solving. Tangled up tank tops? Arrange them neatly on a tie hanger. Too many scarves? Tuck them through shower curtain rings attached to a single hanger. Tall boots? Clip them onto pants hangers. Give these solutions a try and see what others you can discover.

Shelves = Surfaces

Create floating storage by installing shelves on empty walls. They're the perfect place for those DIY bins you made earlier!

Electronic Extras

How many remote controls does it take to change the channel? Sometimes five. Consider velcro for better remote management - it works for your game controllers too!

Spice it up

Reimagine your spice rack. Magnetic stripping under your upper kitchen cabinets can hold repurposed baby food jars or candle jars filled with your favorite flavorings.

The Secret to Success

You've probably guessed it; a label maker. Listen. Everybody loves a label maker. It's like a toy with a purpose. And nothing helps guilt people into doing the right thing like labeling exactly where the right things belong.

Maintenance Guide for Systems and Appliances

A routine maintenance checklist for your air conditioning system:

- Check A/C filters every month, making sure to clean or replace them at least once every three months.
- Perform annual system maintenance during the spring to avoid the busy summer season.
- Keep the condensing unit free of debris
- Trim shrubs and plants near the condensing unit to ensure proper airflow and circulation
- Check condensing unit's fins to see if they're bent. If so, you can find replacements at your local hardware store.
